

THE ENDS OF THE EARTH

Jane Castle & Linda Dement 2009

Produced with support from:

Jane Parkes

Centre D'Art I Natura, Farrera, Catalonia

Svalbard Villmarkssenter, Spitsbergen

Total Environment Centre, Sydney dysfunctional machine electronics - Tony, Antony Electronics dysfunctional machine construction - Govinda Webster, Pink Cactus Props

We are now in the process of shutting down our life support system.

The challenge for every single human being is enormous. Do we have vision to see our interconnectedness? Do we have the will to act on it in time to save ourselves?

the greatest global crime of the new century is coal fired power the greatest global crime of the new century is politicians' pissweak pretence of environmental change the greatest global crime of the new century is in the rising sea the greatest global crime of the new century is air travel the greatest global crime of the new century is the impossibility of recycling half the materials in this show the greatest global crime of the new century is land clearing wood chipping beef production you name it time wasted

the greatest global crime of the new century I saw on TV; that stranded starving polar bear, that brown murky dead reef, that quiet absence of frogs and bees where once they were the greatest global crime of the new century is the phrase we can't afford it the greatest global crime of the new century is that plastic bag with my shopping in it the greatest global crime of the new century is your last old computer now seeping poison in landfill fuck the earth

fuck the future

use it now