Notes

1. A major is a stream of related courses which comprises 36 units, normally eight courses, requiring two courses at level one, four courses at level two and two courses at level 3. Available Majors in the Bachelor of Media Arts are: Interactive Multimedia, Digital Design, Web Development, Animation, Film and Television, Drama, Music, and Performing Arts. Students are advised to check course prerequisites and corequisites prior to selection of courses.
2. A sub-major is a stream of related courses which comprises 27 units, normally six courses. Students can choose from a wide range of disciplines detailed in Majors and Minors. Students should note that not all sub-majors are available on each campus, but may enrol in a sub-major on any campus. Students who choose a language or any other discipline requiring sequential enrolment will need to seek enrolment advice from the School to prepare a program study plan.
3. All students complete four 4.5 unit Electives, unless directed to do English as a Foreign Language as their elective area. See undergraduate elective courses.
4. All students, other than International students and students who have elected to complete either a sub-major or elective in Indigenous Studies, must complete the course COMM 2060 Communication, Culture and Indigenous Australians. International students and students who have elected to complete either a sub-major or elective in Indigenous Studies will study five Electives.
5. All students complete at least one Free Elective as part of their undergraduate program. See undergraduate elective courses.
6. A Common Core course is one available to students enrolled in most undergraduate programs offered within the School of Communication, International Studies and Languages
7. Students select two of the Common Core Option courses listed below:
 - INFT 1014 Introduction to Digital Media (Students who choose Introduction to Digital Media as a Common Core Option will need to pick up an alternative Professional Major Option in second year from the Professional Major Options listed above)
 - PERF 1001 Effective Communication
 - LANG 1054 Intercultural Communication
 - POLI 1014 Global Societies
 - COMM 1006 Communication and the Media
 - SOCU 1005 Migration, Identity and Multiculturalism
