

Mental Health care is advancing – are you?

UniSA's School of Nursing and Midwifery presents a free Mental Health Master Class for general Nurses and Midwives working in hospitals, GP practices, residential care or community settings.

Tuesday, 29 November 2011, 6.00pm–9.00pm
UniSA City East, Centenary Building, Room C3-16

Co-presented by Professor Nicholas Procter PhD, MBA RN, Chair: Mental Health Nursing and Michael Merritt RN, MNurSc (NP), Nurse Practitioner and Teaching Fellow: Mental Health.

The aim of the Mental Health Master class is to:

- > Identify and describe key terms related to a screening mental state examination.
- > Identify the importance of undertaking a screening mental state examination for people with mental health problems and/or illness.
- > Identify essential interviewing and observation skills required for the assessment and referral process.

The class will also incorporate a short information session about entry requirements for the Graduate Diploma of Mental Health Nursing 2012.

Places are limited. To secure one or more places in the Master Class, email: brooke.talbot-pridham@unisa.edu.au or phone: (08) 8302 2706 by Friday, 18 November 2011.

University of South Australia